

1.8.2015 - This week, food assistance from the UN World Food Program ( WFP ) has entered areas around Yemen's port-city of Aden not reached since April. Roughly 340,000 people in eight of the worst affected districts are now receiving aid that includes wheat, pulses and cooking oil. WFP partners are delivering this aid even though the humanitarian ceasefire announced by the Saudi-led Coalition last weekend failed to stick.

Aid received in Aden but humanitarian ceasefire still sought in Yemen
